Biodiversity Business Talks

... for our wellbeing
... for climate protection
... for biodiversity

A project by the Vorarlberg regional authority and its partner organisations in the framework of the EU's Life BooGI-BOP*

Industrial and commercial premises hold enormous potential in terms of climate change mitigation and the promotion of environmental quality. The role of biodiversity as an integral part of innovative and forward-looking urban development is the subject of an online-series of three talks. Three model case projects are presented to show businesses, planners and local authorities where successful action can be taken.
